

Education Unlocks

I'm really grateful to share my experience with these clever kids to whom I taught some of the useful lessons in a short period of time to gain the knowledge related to that specific topic.

I thought that they might refuse my offer to teach them some small information, but I was astonished to see that they are willing to accept this small time and ready to listen me actively.

I just engaged with them through some small games and get to know them from that, and then I just taught some of the important things that is needed for these kids to know about .

To be honest, I loved these kids a lot that I was treating them like one of my brother or sister. And I'm pretty sure that they will be ready to learn more if we got the chance to meet again.

From my point of view, it is their environment around them which cannot let them to study and we cannot blame it to, so I think that the parents of these kids should know about the schemes and programmes that are provided by the government for the kids to get education and change the world in future.

I'm so sure that they might have better thought about the poverty and child labour and how to change these crisis because they know the feeling and have the dense idea to how to solve these scenarios from our country.

In last, it's just really hard to separate from them and they also don't want me to go . And I think it is a kind of special bond which I will cherish forever in my life.

I would really thank Santhya ma'am for this amazing homework. Because of her I get to meet these flourishing flowers who gonna change this world one day.
